LEED® v4 / v4.1 Contribution Sheet — Architectural Wood Doors

Forest Bright architectural wood doors can contribute toward LEED credits in the categories below. LEED certification applies to buildings, not products; this sheet summarizes the documentation Forest Bright provides to support your project's credit documentation. All referenced documents are supplied with project submittals or on request.

LEED CREDIT CATEGORY	FOREST BRIGHT CONTRIBUTION	SUPPORTING DOCUMENTATION	STATUS
EQ — Low-Emitting Materials	Doors compliant with CDPH Standard Method v1.2 emission limits; all-waterborne / UV-cured factory finish system	UL GREENGUARD Gold certificate; verifiable at UL SPOT database	IN PROGRESS
MR — Building Product Disclosure: Sourcing of Raw Materials	FSC® Chain-of-Custody certified doors, available on request	FSC COC certificate [FSC-C_____]; chain-of-custody records per order	CERTIFIED
MR — Building Product Disclosure: Material Ingredients	Health Product Declaration (HPD) per HPD Open Standard	HPD prepared on request for qualifying projects	ON REQUEST
MR — Rapidly Renewable Materials	Agrifiber (wheat straw) core construction	Core mill documentation; construction details per project	ON REQUEST
Formaldehyde Emission Compliance (prerequisite-level in many green specs)	All composite wood components CARB ATCM Phase II / TSCA Title VI compliant; NAUF / ULEF constructions available on request	Forest Bright Compliance Declaration FB-CD-2026; TPC chain-of-custody records with submittals	DECLARED

A note on accuracy. There is no such thing as a "LEED certified door" — LEED certifies buildings. Forest Bright documents each contribution above precisely so your project team can apply it toward the applicable credit, and we welcome verification of every claim through the issuing body's public directory.

— HOW TO USE THIS SHEET

1. Identify the credits your project is pursuing. 2. Specify the corresponding Forest Bright construction in Section 08 14 16 (our CSI guide specification is available for editing). 3. Request the supporting documents listed above with your submittal package — provided within one business day via info@forestbright.com.
